Chabad of Putnam has been making the rounds across the county to celebrate the Festival of Lights. Night three of Chanukah was commemorated in Cold Spring with a menorah lighting Dec. 16.

Man Gets 37 Years For Somers Murder

By Holly Crocco

The man who killed a teenager in a Somers apartment complex last year, also shooting the boy's mother and brother, before leading police on a manhunt that ended in Putnam Valley, was sentenced to 37 years to life in prison last week.

In a plea deal reached in October, Fernando Jimenez, 41, pleaded guilty to shooting his girlfriend and her two sons in their Baldwin Place apartment Oct. 28, 2024. One of the sons, 15-year-old Michael Raimondi, was killed.

A Westchester County judge agreed to the plea deal earlier this year to avoid "what would be a very lengthy trial" that would make the family and victims "relive this again." Jimenez was facing 75 years to life, with the prosecution seeking 40 years and the defense asking for 35.

Last week, Judge George Fudrio imposed a 37-year sentence.

Following Jimenez' arrested, ICE disclosed that the Chilean national was in the country illegally, having returned to the U.S. after being deported 20 years ago.

At about 11:30 p.m. Oct. 28, 2024, 13-year-old Matthew Raimondi called his grandparents to say that his mother's boyfriend was "hurting her." They arrived at the residence shortly after to find Jimenez exiting the apartment.

The grandparents entered the home to find that Matthew, as well as his brother, Michael, 15, and their mother, Christina Raimondi, 38, had all been shot in the head.

Michael succumbed to his injuries, while Matthew and Christina were taken to local hospitals for treatment. Michael was a 10th-grader at Somers High School and enrolled in the Westchester County Police Department Cadet program.

New York State Police immediately began a manhunt in northern Westchester and southwestern Putnam County, which stretched into the following morning. After a 12-hour search, Jimenez was located hiding out in a real estate office near 299 Peekskill Hollow Road, Putnam Valley.

An illegally possessed handgun was also recovered.

According to Immigration & Customs Enforcement, Jimenez was arrested Aug. 11, 2004, in Tecate, Calif., and claimed he was a Mexican native with a different name. He was voluntarily deported to Mexico, but re-entered the U.S. "at some point," per a New York Post article.

He was also arrested for drunk-driving in 2018 in Yonkers and released with a $500 fine.

Festival of Lights Illuminates Putnam

The menorah lighting on Lake Gleneida in Carmel kicked off Chanukah, and was well attended despite the cold. The community joined together through song and prayer, and enjoyed goodies. The menorah was lit in solidarity with the Jewish brethren in Australia. Rabbi Aviv Korner shared a powerful message of hope and resilience, reminding attendees that even a small flame can dispel great darkness.

Taxi Commission Needed

Dear Editor:

The last two serious crimes in Putnam County involved taxi drivers. Sadly, one cab driver was killed; the other one escaped injury from a firearm shot at his taxi. Both crimes were reported to have been caused by disputes over cab fares. Putnam County has no regulations with taxis. Unlike other counties, there is no taxi and limo commission; no organization to set fares. If anyone ever had to take a taxi, especially late at night from a train station, they know fares can change by the whim of the cab driver who knows passengers want to get home and have no other options. There is no one a customer can complain to if someone is overcharged. While the Village of Brewster has a taxi commission, once a cab leaves the village, there is no longer any regulations or fee structure, from what I understand. It is long time Putnam has regulations to protect cab customers and drivers. There should be safety requirements placed on cab owners, mandating cameras in taxis and maybe even safety barriers between the front and back seat to protect taxi drivers. Many legit Putnam cab and limo companies actually get a Westchester taxi and limo license so they can pick up legally at New York-area airports, which require such a license and special taxi and limo license plates. Taxi drivers should also be fingerprinted and issued a picture ID card like other counties do, to protect customers from bad actors driving taxis. My prayers go out to the family of the murdered cab driver. If there was a safety barrier between the front and rear seat, this driver might still be alive.

Putnam Valley Library Year in Review

Dear Editor:

On Monday, Dec. 15, the Putnam Valley Free Library held its annual meeting to review the 2024-25 fiscal year, conduct the usual business of approving new trustees, and say goodbye to dedicated volunteers and friends. We approved Elizabeth Broas for a full five-year term starting next month; she is currently serving as an interim trustee. Sadly, we also had the difficult task of saying goodbye to our friend Tom Pendleton, who is wrapping up his third interim trustee term. Thank you, Tom, for serving your community. The Board of Trustees also nominated and voted to appoint board officers for the 2026 calendar year: Joseph Ferraro as president, Virginia Lefurgy as vice president, Leslie Martin as treasurer, and Terry Raskyn as secretary. On behalf of all the trustees, Director Amina Chaudhri, our staff, volunteers, friends, supporters, and neighbors, the Putnam Valley Free Library is pleased to share highlights from our 2024-25 fiscal year – a time marked by growth, revitalization, and expanded service to our community. Over the past year, the library expanded both adult and children’s programs, including book clubs, concerts, daily story times, cooking classes, teen Dungeons & Dragons campaigns, and our most extensive summer reading program to date. Hundreds of children benefited from new books added through the Children’s Book Council Awards, and adults enjoyed a diverse range of arts, wellness, and cultural events. We strengthened partnerships with Putnam Valley Elementary School, Hudson Highlands Land Trust, Meals on Main Street, Cornell Cooperative Extension, local scouts, and many others. Through these collaborations, the library provided meals, educational experiences, outdoor learning options, and essential resources for families and seniors. Major facility upgrades have been completed, including our Americans with Disabilities Act-accessible bathroom renovation, a refreshed conference room, new water filtration systems, and safety updates. Ongoing projects such as the Community Room renovation, parking lot repairs, and planning for a future Fireplace Café will ensure modern, inviting spaces for everyone. These achievements were made possible through responsible financial management and several key grants, including a pending New York State construction grant, $20,000 in Bullet Aid, and a $3,000 ADA grant. We are excited to share that we are continuing to explore the best ways to add additional evening and Sunday hours, expanding access for working families and students. Thank you to the residents of Putnam Valley for your ongoing support. Together, we continue to build a library grounded in creativity, connection, and community.

Fatal Crash in Southeast

A New York woman was killed in a car crash in Southeast last week. According to the Putnam County Sheriff’s Office, the collision occurred Dec. 16 at about 7:11 a.m., in the area of Deans Corner Road and Turk Hill Road. Preliminary investigation determined that Jaclyn Hamill, 43, was driving a 2016 Honda Civic southbound on Deans Corner Road, approaching Turk Hill Road, when she crossed over the double-yellow line while negotiating a curve and struck an oncoming commercial moving truck. Hamill was pronounced dead at the scene. The two occupants of the moving truck were not injured. Deans Corner Road was closed for several hours to allow emergency responders and investigators to process the scene. The New York State Police Accident Reconstruction Unit assisted with the investigation, which is ongoing.

Drone & K-9 Demos Part of Mahopac DARE Assembly

Carmel and Kent police recently participated in a DARE assembly at Mahopac Middle School.

Mahopac Middle School recently hosted a high-energy culminating assembly for its Drug Abuse Resistance Education program, welcoming police officers and K-9 units from Carmel and Kent. DARE is a nationally recognized program that teaches students how to make safe, healthy, and responsible choices. At Mahopac Middle School, seventh-graders learn about the dangers of drugs, how to handle peer pressure in real-life situations, and the importance of effective communication and decision making. “We are fortunate to work with Officer (Vincent) Serio and the Town of Carmel Police Department, whose guidance and support help make the DARE experience meaningful and memorable for everyone,” said Assistant Principal Anthony Muia, who spearheaded the program at the middle school. “This year’s program was a huge success, and we are proud of all the students for their participation and hard work.” During the assembly, Police Officer Vincenzo Rocco conducted an indoor drone demonstration using a compact drone designed for interior use. Operating the drone remotely with a headset and his back to the gymnasium, Rocco navigated it throughout the space, explaining how the technology allows officers to deploy eyes inside a building during an emergency. Students were also introduced to police K-9 partners, including Officer Vincent DeSantola and K-9 Pietro from the Carmel Police Department, and Sgt. Ryan Piekarski and K-9 Saber from the Kent Police Department. Both dogs are German shepherds trained to assist law enforcement in tasks such as locating missing persons, detecting narcotics or explosives, tracking suspects, and supporting officer safety. K-9 handlers demonstrated how the animals apprehend suspects using controlled commands, with one officer acting as a decoy while wearing a heavily padded protective sleeve. Another demonstration showed a K-9 locating hidden narcotics, highlighting the dogs’ discipline, training, and precision. The assembly concluded with a tug-of-war between students and officers. Despite being outnumbered by more than 15 seventh-graders, the officers secured the win to the cheers of the crowd.

Sayegh Not Seeking Re-Election

McCracken Announces Candidacy for Legislature

Legislature Chairwoman Amy Sayegh will not run for re-election in 2026.

Mahopac School Board Trustee Tanner McCracken has announced his candidacy for the legislative seat.

Carmel Town Councilman Frank Lombardi said he is considering a run for Legislature.

By Holly Crocco

Local elected officials have begun circling an open seat for Putnam County Legislature after it was reported that Legislature Chairwoman Amy Sayegh, R-Mahopac Falls, will not be seeking re-election next year.

Sayegh allegedly notified party leaders Dec. 18 of her decision not to run again.

Within hours, Mahopac School Board Trustee Tanner McCracken announced his candidacy

“I’m a lifelong conservative Republican and a proven fighter for lower property taxes, real government transparency, affordability, and strong financial policies,” he posted on social media. “As your Mahopac School Board trustee, I didn’t just talk about these issues – I delivered results. Now it’s time to bring that same proactive, fresh leadership to the County Legislature.”

First elected in 2020 at the age of 20, McCracken was the youngest person ever to be elected to the Mahopac School Board. He is a 2017 Mahopac High School graduate and has been a resident of Mahopac since 2006.

In his announcement last week, McCracken cited crushing property taxes, the out-of-control cost of living, and unaffordability for seniors and young families as reasons he’s stepping up.

“Mahopac has been my home since I walked into Mahopac schools at 7 years old,” he said. “Serving my community and fighting to make sure my neighbors can afford to live here is personal to me... I’m ready to work hard, earn your support, and earn your vote.”

Republican Carmel Town Councilman Frank Lombardi also expressed interest in the seat.

“With Putnam County Legislator Amy Sayegh deciding not to seek another term on the Legislature in District 8, I have been asked to give strong consideration to running for her seat, in a district that I have lived in for over 20 years,” he wrote on Facebook.

Lombardi has 14 years of experience serving on the Carmel Town Board, having been deputy supervisor for more than 10 years.

“I am strongly contemplating running next year and will make a decision in the near future,” he wrote. “I hope to have the support of my neighbors and friends.”

Carmel Man Found Guilty of 2022 Murder

By Holly Crocco

A Carmel man was recently found guilty of the 2022 murder of a Putnam woman he allegedly thought was stealing drugs from him.

According to U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of New York Jay Clayton, following a one-week trial before U.S. District Judge Philip Halpern, a jury found Dwayne Pulliam, 63, guilty of Travel Act murder, participating in a conspiracy with intent to distribute and possess heroin and 28 grams of crack cocaine, and possession and distribution of heroin and crack cocaine.

He faces life in prison.

According to the indictment, Pulliam had a lengthy criminal history including convictions in North Carolina in 1981 for breaking and entering, larceny, and assault on a female; in 1985 for assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill; in 1988 for possession of a firearm by a felon and trafficking cocaine; in 1992 for assault on a female and hit-and-run; and in New York in 1999 for intentional murder, for which Pulliam was sentenced to 15 years to life in prison and released to lifetime parole Dec. 1, 2020.

After his release from prison, Pulliam – who used the nickname “Doc” – got a job at a drug rehabilitation facility in Carmel. He began distributing retail quantities of crack cocaine in New York and Connecticut, including for both money and sexual favors, according to the indictment.

Additionally, he would use his customers as workers, paying them in drugs.

On or about March 28, 2022, Lori Lynn Campbell – one of Pulliam’s customers – was at his apartment in Carmel when he suspected that she was stealing drugs from him and his business, and “tested” her by leaving a small amount of crack cocaine in a room with her. When Pulliam returned, the drugs were gone, and he confronted Campbell.

When Campbell tried to leave, Pulliam allegedly strangled her to death. As he later told one of his customers/workers, he “stopped her from screaming,” reads the indictment.

Pulliam had one of his customers/workers help him move Campbell’s body to the trunk of his car, during which they used so much force that it broke one of her vertebrae. Pulliam then drove to North Carolina, where he wrapped Campbell’s body in a plastic sheet, covered it with sulfur powder, and buried it in a shallow grave, according to court documents.

After he returned to New York and Connecticut, Pulliam continued selling drugs until he was arrested in this case.

Career Day Inspires Brewster 8th-Graders

Career Day at Henry H. Wells Middle School is an important part of Brewster students’ education, exposing them to a wide range of possibilities they might not have known existed.

Eighth-graders recently participated in Career Day, attending three sessions with 24 speakers from a variety of fields, from architecture to comedy, and entrepreneurship to cosmetology. Although their careers differed, each speaker emphasized the importance of open-mindedness, flexibility, and strong interpersonal skills.

The morning opened with a keynote from Eric Zeyher, a former D-1 athlete-turned-music-producer, trainer, and business owner, who pushed students to stay curious and ask meaningful questions.

Each classroom in the eighth grade hallway was filled: architect Erik Wilson was in Room 206, SPCA officer Ken Ross was in Room 220, crime scene analyst Courtney Effaldana was in Room 222, lawyer Robert Biagi was in Room 225, art director Taylor Martin was in Room 208, retired Secret Service agent/security consult Scott Lewis was in Room 226, and CPA/professor Franklin Asante was in Room 227.

Students got to try on gear, pat work dogs, practice rolling hair on a mannequin, and test equipment.

Speaker Graeme Banks is only a junior in college but already the founder and CEO of his own company, TransferU. After struggling to transfer credits to his new college – and realizing that families spend millions of dollars each year on extra classes because transfer credits are lost – he created software to help others avoid the same problem.

“I’m a humanities student. I study social studies,” he said. “I never imagined myself writing code to solve a problem. But I saw a problem and wanted to solve it. I want you to know you can do anything you put your mind to. Find your why.”

His message resonated with aspiring entrepreneur and eighth-grader Jackson Malloy, who spent the entire summer trying to identify a problem in the market that hadn’t already been solved.

“The market is so oversaturated,” he said. “I couldn’t find anything that hasn’t been done already.”

Graeme responded by explaining, “I didn’t know transfer credits were a problem in the world until I lived it. My lived experience sparked my imagination.”

Truck Rollover Causes Traffic Nightmare on I-84

Traffic was snarled on Interstate 84 for hours last Thursday as emergency responders attempted to clear the scene of a large truck rollover on the westbound side. The incident occurred around 4 p.m. Dec. 18. Photo by Brewster Fire Department.

County Trains for Future Outbreaks

Medical Reserve Corps volunteers teamed up with Putnam County Health Department staff last month to fine tune their outbreak interviewing skills. Two training and role-playing sessions – conducted by Christina Gulotta, a New York State regional epidemiologist, and Alison Kaufman, a Putnam County epidemiologist – were held at the Bureau of Emergency Services in Carmel.

Earlier this year the health department’s core outbreak team incorporated additional tiers of staff into the lineup. These staff members were among those who took part in the training to strengthen the surge capacity needed in a large outbreak.

More than two dozen participants attended one of the two-hour trainings. Working in pairs, each person conducted a 20-minute mock interview with their partner. The scenario was a food-borne illness outbreak at a large wedding event.

The goal? To enhance their “disease detective” skills, identify “patient zero” and the source of the pathogen, and stop further transmission.

Everyone received a role assignment sheet, which outlined their symptoms, the food and drink ingested, and other pertinent details about their wedding experience. A 14-page, 59-item questionnaire was also provided as a guide for each participant when playing the role of interviewer.

Kaufman emphasized how information obtained through interviews is one of three main components in an outbreak investigation.

“We do an environmental investigation at the site, obtain specimens and test them for pathogens, and conduct interviews with people who may have been exposed,” she said. “We want to speak with both those who became sick and those who did not get sick. Comparisons between sick and well, alongside information from the site investigation and lab testing, all help us put the pieces together to determine what caused the outbreak and how to prevent more people from getting sick.”

Medical Reserve Corps volunteers have played an integral role in past departmental responses, according to Connie Buetti, emergency preparedness coordinator for Putnam County who also co-manages the MRC – which marked two decades of service to Putnam County residents.

Nearly 100 dedicated residents make up the corps, with skills in areas like clinical, logistical, and administrative that make a difference in protecting and strengthening health and safety in the county.

Surprise Holiday Homecoming for Brewster Students

A pair of Brewster sisters were surprised last week by the unannounced return of their big brother who has been away completing training with the U.S. Army.

Jacob Stone, a recent Brewster High School graduate and former National Junior Reserves Office Training Corps member, enlisted in the U.S. Army shortly after graduation. He went to basic training and has been hard at work at Fort Gordon, Ga., completing job training as a network and communications specialist.

Stone signed a three-year contract with the Army and has been away from home since July.

On Dec. 18, he returned home and – along with his parents – showed up to surprise his siblings, Abigail Stone at Henry H. Wells Middle School and Ryder Stone at CV Starr Intermediate School. The reunions were filled with happy tears, hugs, and unforgettable moments.

Mahopac Students Perform at the Happiest Place on Earth

By Junior Cira Graap

As Mahopac High School students took their first steps off the plane in Orlando, Fla., they knew they were about to embark on their best field trip yet.

From Nov. 6 through 11, nearly 90 students from the MHS music department experienced the adventure of a lifetime in the happiest place on earth.

The excitement peaked Nov. 7, when the MHS band, orchestra, and chorus delivered stellar performances at Disney Springs. Between their musical moments, students explored Animal Kingdom, Magic Kingdom, Hollywood Studios, EPCOT, and Disney Springs – making memories around every corner.

“I had the best time in Hollywood Studios,” said junior Eileen Bergerson. “I had so much fun with all my friends – the people truly made it special.”

Fellow junior Tiago Evangelista added, “The thrill of performing was an unbelievable experience.”

But the trip wasn’t just fun and performances. Each ensemble also had the rare opportunity to participate in workshops led by professional Disney conductors. Students returned home inspired, bringing new techniques and insights back into their MHS music classrooms.

With unforgettable performances, new learning experiences, and plenty of Disney magic, this year’s music department trip was one for the books.

Carmel Students Join ‘TubaChristmas’ in NYC

Carmel tuba players recently performed in front of the Rockefeller Christmas tree in NYC.

Students from George Fischer Middle School and Carmel High School joined about 100 musicians from around the world to play holiday tunes at Rockefeller Center’s 52nd annual TubaChristmas in New York City on Dec. 14.

This was the third consecutive year that GFMS music teachers Erika Wahlers and Eric Pecor led Carmel students to participate in the event.

“Tubas are not instruments that typically have melodic parts,” said Wahlers. “TubaChristmas is an event that allows tuba players to make up an entire ensemble, meaning tuba players get to be the melody, the harmony, and the bass. This provides a unique playing opportunity for the students that they do not get every day in school.”

The students got to play holiday classics like “Deck the Halls,”

“Joy to the World,” “Silent Night,” “Jingle Bells,” and “We Wish You a Merry Christmas,” but the event was about more than music.

“The students are able to connect with other tuba players from Carmel but also get to meet tuba players from other schools, professional musicians, and adults who have continued to play for the joy of making music,” said Pecor. “This is a fun performing opportunity where students get to share holiday cheer.”

TubaChristmas was conceived in 1974 by Harvey Phillips as a tribute to his teacher and mentor William J. Bell, who was born on Christmas Day 1902. Now, tuba and euphonium players from around the world gather in front of the Christmas tree at Rockefeller Center for one afternoon a year to play Christmas carols on their horns.

The Speed of Life

You press that app icon just as you have done a billion times. Your feed pops up. Some light scrolling, a stop and click (a guy in a dinosaur costume riding a unicycle and playing the bagpipes... Sure, I'll watch that!), and after a minute or two the memes, the reels, and the posts feel like repeats.

Facebook is a "Brady Bunch" rerun – comfort food for an anxious mind. The algorithm has you mathematically pegged. You mentioned fishing two days ago? Up pops a guy in a boat wrestling with a baby shark.

You swipe two more times, then you see it. A class reunion group post features a photo portrait of a familiar classmate. It does not take long to process the magnitude of the post. This person was in your life from early single-digits to cap-and-gown days. Their personality and life force was imprinted on your brain.

Now they are gone.

Social media records loss so completely, it can overwhelm. Even if it has been decades since you last had contact with the departed – the photographs, the condolence messages, and the showering of love and support online memorializes their impact in truly powerful ways. When the loss is a peer and schoolmate, the blow is more personal. If they can leave this world, so can I.

Am I prepared? Did I plan well enough to allow my family to continue with some degree of security and comfort?

Appreciating the fragility of life usually comes with age, but being prepared has no age requirement. Set up an estate planning consultation.

Think about your people. Who do you want to protect and who do you want to protect you? Planners will ask these questions. Certain core documents are always going to be emphasized.

Every person should have a Power of Attorney and a Health Care Proxy. If a sudden illness or injury impacts your decision-making ability, you need to have legally authorized people looking out for your well-being. Powers of Attorney cover financial decisions while healthcare decisions fall under Health Care Proxies. These documents remain in effect as long as you continue to live and have not revoked them.

Once you pass away, a whole other set of documents and designations take effect.

Younger families dealing with an unexpected passing face immediate financial pressures after losing a primary income earner. There may be school payments, large mortgage and tax payments, childcare costs, and all of the trappings of a middle-class life in New York that demand remittance.

The slowness of the Probate process in New York delays the actual receipt of necessary funds. Having updated beneficiary designations including contingent beneficiaries in place for your qualified retirement accounts (401k, 403b, IRA), non-retirement investment accounts, and life insurance policies will allow larger sums to be transmitted much more quickly.

With named beneficiaries on file, the companies managing these assets can send and receive the necessary documentation expediently and issue payment many months earlier than Probate. Joint accounts and jointly held property with rights of survivorship also directly transfer ownership immediately to a surviving spouse. Same with trusts holding assets which flow to named beneficiaries without court intervention.

These are the tools of our trade and when they are correctly drafted, executed and administered, a family's stress in the aftermath of an unexpected loss can be softened.

Estate planning is one the very few human endeavors in which the impact and benefits far outweigh the energy required to get started. Once they are completed and comfortably situated in your home in a decorative folder, your planning documents are always ready to carry you and your family through life's toughest moments.

Brewster NJROTC Earns Awards at Drill Meet

Brewster High School student members of the National Junior Reserves Officer Training Corps recently competed against 15 schools from across the northeast at the Bethel Drill Meet and delivered a performance that earned awards in multiple events.

The Armed Platoon led by Cadet Ethan Cruz took first place. Brewster also placed first for its freshman inspection, commanded by Michael Biancamano, and in rocketry led by Cadet Riley Borneman.

The freshman platoon drill commanded by Abigail Ingunza placed second. Brewster also took second in athletics with Danna Hernandez, Wyatt Lewis, Charleigh Scott, Martin Sauca, and mentored by Christian Fox.

The drone team led by Cadets David Arias and Nick Anderson placed third.

Through the entire team's efforts, BHS earned third place overall.

In the Area 1 Orienteering Championship, while battling cold weather including snow flurries, students navigated the woods and hills in the Pond Natural Area in Kent, Conn. Out of the seven schools competing, the efforts of all 10 junior varsity and varsity members earned the team second place overall.

Varsity members include Will Mattson, Riley Borneman, Steven Alonzo Lemus, Marcos Chinchilima and Sam Sanchez Gill. Junior varsity members include Anthony Borja, Johann Mojica, Kevin Ramos, Emma Plouffe, and Luca Borneman.

Two Brewster students earned individual awards for the fastest time out of more than 90 competitors: Mattson ran the fastest time on the men's varsity course, and Borneman placed first on the JV course.

Based on the team's accomplishments, the BHS NJROTC orienteering team earned the right to be one of the schools to represent Area 1 at the NJROTC National Orienteering Championships to be held in Florida in March.

Putnam Nonprofits Receive $75,000 from Community Foundations

Community Foundations of the Hudson Valley has awarded its 2025 Community Grants, bestowing a total of $542,000 to nonprofits across Dutchess, Putnam, and Ulster counties and marking the foundation’s largest round of grants ever.

In Putnam County, 13 nonprofits have received a total of $75,000 – an unprecedented level of CFHV-driven support for the community.

“CFHV spent the past year listening to the community to learn what matters most to the people who live and work in the Hudson Valley – what they love about living here as well as their most pressing concerns and needs,” said Laura Washington, president and CEO of CFHV. “This feedback guided our grant-making decisions, keeping in mind the most pressing needs expressed by community members: housing, food security, mental health, childcare, and more.”

Community Foundations is extending its impact beyond funding by supporting Putnam County nonprofits with essential educational resources and training. Through complimentary memberships to the Nonprofit Learning Lab, nonprofit leaders gain access to expert guidance on fundraising, strategic planning, volunteer management, and other critical skills.

Monthly capacity-building workshops further strengthen organizational fundraising, governance and operations, communications, and financial management. These initiatives reflect CFHV’s approach to philanthropy – providing nonprofits with both resources and expertise to expand their programs, launch new initiatives, and amplifying their impact across the community.

CFHV celebrated the 13 Putnam County grantees at its annual changemaker event Dec. 3 at the Putnam History Museum in Cold Spring. Awardees include: Be a Friend Project, CAREERS Support Solutions, Child Care Council of Dutchess & Putnam, Cold Spring Farmers’ Market, Garrison Art Center, Philipstown Depot Theatre, Putnam County Housing Corp., Sustainable Putnam, The Philipstown Behavioral Health Hub, Second Chance Foods, Tompkins Corners Cultural Center, and more.

“It is so encouraging to be surrounded by diverse organizations who build up our communities,” said grant recipient Joseph Montuori, executive director of Sustainable Putnam. “Thank you for facilitating those connections and for your ongoing support.”

To apply for a grant in 2026, visit CommunityFoundationsHV.org.

Community Foundations of the Hudson Valley is partner in philanthropy, empowering individuals, families, businesses, and organizations to establish charitable funds that address the needs of Dutchess, Putnam, and Ulster counties. Established in 1969 as the Area Fund, it has grown to manage more than $130 million in assets and administers nearly 600 charitable funds, distributing more than $17 million in local grants and scholarships in 2024 alone.

Start 2026 With a ‘First Day Hike’

New Yorkers are encouraged to start their year off with wellness by participating in the free First Day Hikes initiative at state parks, historic sites, natural areas, canal trails, environmental education centers, and various other public lands across the Empire State on Jan. 1.

To keep the event affordable, the normal parking fee at state parks and sites will be waived Jan. 1.

“First Day Hikes offer a welcome break from the holiday rush and a chance to reconnect with nature and one another,” said New York State Parks Acting Commissioner Kathy Moser.

Most hikes are beginner- and family friendly, typically ranging from 1 to 5 miles depending on the location and trail conditions.

Many First Day Hikes are led in partnership with “friends” groups who are stewards on state lands, as well as other partners across the state. This year, the Department of Environmental Conservation and State Parks are partnering with the New York State Outdoor Guides Association to offer even more hiking opportunities to the public with several First Day Hikes led by NYS-licensed guide professionals.

Local sites participating in the initiative include Hudson Highlands State Park/Little Stony Point in Cold Spring, FDR State Park in Yorktown Heights, Old Croton Aqueduct State Historic Park in Cortlandt, Philipse Manor Hall State Historic Site in Yonkers, Rockefeller State Park Preserve in Sleepy Hollow, Stony Kill Farm Environmental Education Center in Wappingers Falls, Walkway Over the Hudson State Historic Park in Highland, and Bear Mountain State Park.

A list of all First Day Hikes, location details, format, pre-registration requirements, and additional information can be found at parks.ny.gov/events/first-day-hikes. Interested participants are encouraged to check the details of their preferred host site in advance and register if required.

Starting in Massachusetts in 1992, First Day Hikes is now a national event taking place in all 50 states.
