Parents and their teens show off the mandala art they created on old records.

'Inspiring' Quality Family Time CoveCare Program Promotes Drug Use Prevention

Families painted canvases as part of the recent InspiRED events.

It was a week of creativity and connections for participants of the third annual InspiRED initiative, which is a series of community events started by CoveCare Center's prevention educators to celebrate Red Ribbon Week – a national awareness week to educate youth and encourage participation in drug prevention activities.

This year's InspiRED included four free parent-teen art nights across Putnam County, which took place Oct. 23 to 26.

The week started at Brewster Public Library, where artist Sarah Miller Totten instructed attendees to paint an autumn scene with birds. Parents and their teens worked together, blending colors and applying brush strokes onto canvases.

"The best part about painting is that no matter what you do, it's always art," said sixth-grader Jackson Malloy, who painted side-by-side with his mother. "I think when you make art with your relatives, it's always a better experience because you can see their true art."

more participants to Garrison Art Center on the second evening.

"Children of parents who talk to them regularly about drugs are 42 percent less likely to use drugs than those who don't," she said. "Yet only a quarter of teens report having these conversations. Parents who have a positive relationship with their children and start to have conversations early and often about drugs and alcohol make a difference in how children make safe and healthy choices about substances. Parents are a very important part of prevention."

Birmingham Seeks Return to County Legislature

Former Legislator and Deputy County Executive Dan Birmingham recently announced his intent to return to county government, kicking off his candidacy in the 2024 race for the Seventh District of the Putnam County Legislature.

Dan Birmingham

Birmingham, also a Republican, served on the Legislature from 2004 to 2012, when he decided to forego seeking a fourth term.

Birmingham said his priorities include keeping a lid on county spending, continuing the dedication of excess sales tax surpluses to direct tax relief, and encouraging environmentally-sound economic development that would lower the tax burden on Putnam's homeowners.

In addition to serving as deputy county executive during the Bondi administration (1995-98),

Republicans Decry Clean Slate Act Law Seals Criminal Records After Time Served

Gov. Kathy Hochul last week signed the Clean Slate Act, which allows certain criminal records to be sealed years after an individual is sentenced or released from incarceration if that individual is not subsequently convicted of an additional criminal act.

Following their release from any incarceration, records of individuals with eligible misdemeanor convictions will be sealed after three years, and those with certain felony convictions after eight years.

The Clean Slate Act will not seal the records of individuals convicted of sex crimes, murder or other non-drug Class A felonies. In addition, law enforcement, prosecutors, the New York State Education Department, courts and other groups will continue to have access to all criminal records under this law.

"The best crime-fighting tool is a good-paying job," said Hochul, a Democrat. "That's why I support giving New Yorkers a clean slate after they've paid their debt to society and gone years without an additional offense. I negotiated a compromise that protects public safety and boosts economic opportunity, and the final Clean Slate law will help New Yorkers access jobs and housing while allowing police, prosecutors and school officials to protect their communities."

Some Republican state lawmakers, however, disagree.

"I believe in second chances, but in typical fashion, Albany Democrats have gone too far with the Clean Slate Act," said Assemblyman Matt Slater, R-Yorktown. "The automatic protection of criminals with a history of violence and other offenses poses a significant threat to our state's safety when the issue of crime remains a top concern for New Yorkers. The continual approval of impractical and potentially hazardous policies by Albany Democrats undermines public safety and provides unwarranted protection for criminals."

State Senator Rob Rolison, R-Poughkeepsie, said Democrats in Albany advertise the legislation as a second chance when it's much closer to a "free pass." Further, he said the law is redundant since courts already have a process for sealing the records of those convicted of certain misdemeanors and non-violent felonies.

"I am not opposed to second chances for those who have made mistakes," said Rolison. "But you don't balance one wrong with another. Clean Slate outlaws common sense and banishes discretion

Brewster's Semper Fi Club Feeds America's Heroes

Students in the Brewster High School Semper Fi Club packed lunches for veterans to take home during a recent grab-n-go event. The drive-up program began during COVID but has turned into a tradition. Lunches included a choice of wraps and paninis, chips, a drink and a note of thanks, along with a gift bag of chocolates.

Students stood outside BHS alongside tables of food, holding flags, playing patriotic music and clapping as veterans drove up for their lunches. "It's a great way to say thanks and make the veterans feel warm," said club member Savannah Fisher.

Toss it? No Way! Bring it to the Mahopac Repair Café

Remember that broken lamp you put aside several years ago? Or the toaster that only browns one side of your toast? Don't trash it just yet... Bring it to the Mahopac Repair Café.

On Saturday, Dec. 9, Sustainable Putnam will host Mahopac's first Repair Café at the Mahopac Middle School from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Repair Cafés are free community events to which you can bring your broken-but-beloved items to be fixed by volunteers. Born in Amsterdam in 2009, Repair Cafés were brought to New Paltz in 2013 by volunteer organizer John Wackman. His dedication, enthusiasm and success inspired more than 50 other Hudson Valley communities to hold their own cafés.

"We're so excited to bring this free program to our community," said Sustainable Putnam Executive Director Joe Montuori. "So many of us have possessions we just don't want to toss in the trash. We know they can be repaired, but don't really know how to go about it. Whether it's the cost or the sentimental value it holds, some things are just too good to throw away. Repair Cafés are a shift to an earlier way of thinking about our stuff."

Everyone is welcome to participate as a guest or a volunteer at Repair Cafés. Guests are asked to reserve a time slot in advance to limit wait times, although walk-ins are welcome. You'll be greeted and directed to a repair coach – or a refreshment table and a seat if necessary.

Sustainable Putnam Director Sarah Wilson has run a Repair Café in neighboring Yorktown since July 2018, and urged Sustainable Putnam to launch its own.

"It's a significant amount of work, and there's a modest cost to fund it, but the rewards are many," she said. "We've had guests give us hugs, make donations, bring us baked goods and even shed a tear when a prized possession gets repaired."

Sustainable Putnam's Board of Directors took on Wilson's challenge for all of those reasons, and more. Repair Cafés also keep a lot of stuff out of the waste stream, reduce air and water pollution, preserve traditional repair know-how and skills, and teach guests how to troubleshoot and even make simple fixes themselves.

"We're never sure how long a repair will take, but we schedule 30 minutes for each repair slot, which is usually enough time to diagnose and fix it – or not," said Wilson. "About 75 percent of everything that comes in the door gets repaired, but even when we don't succeed, we are able to provide advice or referrals, enjoy sharing our skills with our neighbors, and take pride in doing our best to salvage it. Folks really appreciate the effort either way."

Volunteers are needed as repair coaches. You don't need to be an "expert," because repair coaches love to collaborate and share tools, supplies and advice. Also needed are volunteers to serve refreshments, take photos or greet and collect feedback from guests.

To register for a repair, or to sign up to volunteer, visit sustainableputnam.org/repair-cafe or leave a message with your name and item to be repaired at 646-598-6560.

perform background checks and collect fingerprints from and track every migrant who has come to New York. This common-sense measure will enable law enforcement to prevent violent incidents, like the sexual assaults committed by two migrants that New York City Mayor Eric Adams relocated to suburban Buffalo, and thwart homeland security threats who may be taking advantage of the broken immigration system.

Despite what Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez, Ilhan Omar and the Socialist Squad would like us to believe, illegal immigration presents an enormous threat to our country. That is why Gov. Kathy Hochul must immediately repeal New York's sanctuary state policy that handcuffs law enforcement and prohibits the communication with federal immigration officials needed to remove criminal immigrants from our state and "connect the dots" regarding homeland security threats.

The politicians who, like Gov. Hochul, have embraced dangerous sanctuary policies at the local level need to understand the damage they are causing.

In light of the horrific attacks on Israel, the facts require our state to take a fresh look at the policies it has adopted and take the necessary steps to ensure the safety of all New Yorkers.

Assemblyman Matt Slater, R-Yorktown, represents New York's 94th Assembly District, which includes the Putnam County towns of Southeast, Patterson, Kent, Carmel and Putnam Valley.

NY Needs to Repeal the Sanctuary State Policy

Twenty-two years ago, New York was the victim of an unprovoked terrorist attack that shocked the conscience of our nation and the world. Tragically, history repeated itself (last) month when Hamas terrorists stormed from Gaza into Israel and brutally murdered innocent Israelis and 31 Americans, including children, the elderly and the disabled. As Americans, we proudly stand with Israel and its citizens and pray for the victims of these war crimes.

Beyond the human tragedy, Hamas' attack serves as a stark reminder that America and its democratic allies remain targets for those who hate freedom and our way of life.

Because of the Biden administration's open border policies, the recently concluded federal fiscal year shattered all records for the number of illegal immigrants entering our country. In fact, more than 6 million migrants have illegally entered the U.S. since Biden became president. Even worse, this is an accelerating crisis in which September was the single worst month in history; more than 220,000 migrants were processed by U.S. Customs & Border Patrol last month.

The consequences of this profound failure to secure our border are grave. While New York is struggling with the most obvious effects of the migrant crisis, Border Patrol also confiscated 27,000 pounds of fentanyl this year, which was nearly twice the record set the year before, fueling an overdose epidemic that is now the leading cause of death for Americans between the ages of 18 and 45.

In September, more than 8,000 migrants from "special interest countries" crossed the southern border, with 76,000 entering our country during the previous 12 months. Moreover, the September figure includes more Border Patrol encounters with people on the Terrorist Watch List than the last six years combined. These are chilling figures that present an unprecedented homeland security risk.

Since the federal government is incapable of securing the border, New York State has a responsibility to act. I introduced legislation (A.7319) requiring the state to

Harvest Fest Highlights Thanksgiving Traditions

Third-graders at MPES wait for turkeys to finish roasting over an open fire pit.

A "pilgrim" tells Thanksgiving tales.

The recent annual Third Grade Harvest Festival at Matthew Paterson Elementary School in Carmel/Kent featured a round robin of traditional and modern activities.

In their classrooms, students played Harvest Bingo and listened to a Thanksgiving story while the tale was animated on a white board.

Teacher Michelle Belasco

read "How to Catch a Turkey" to her class before starting the third-graders on a craft project. "Tom the Turkey is loose in Matthew Paterson Elementary," she told her class. "You are going to build a contraption to catch him."

Outside, children pressed apples for cider while volunteers dressed as pilgrims and woodsmen roasted turkeys over an open fire and told Thanksgiving tales.

Vietnam Vet Visits Carmel Students

To learn about what it means to be a veteran, Catherine DeToma's third grade class at Matthew Paterson Elementary School in Carmel/Kent had a visit from a Vietnam veteran who happened to be one student's grandfather. John Claudet told his grandson Lucas' class about life in the military. He explained that he served in the Army, but on boats. He was 20 or 21 when he joined, and served from 1969 to 1972.

Allergy Friendly Thanksgiving

Every year I prepare a Thanksgiving dinner for my extended family. It's my favorite holiday as it combines two of my favorite things- family and food. Collectively, we are gluten-free, vegetarian, dairy-free, and come with other food preferences that make for a unique meal. There are a few ingredients and products I rely on to make traditional recipes to meet my family's dietary needs.

Cornstarch: If you need to thicken a sauce (or gravy!), while keeping it gluten free, then corn starch is your preferred go-to. Gluten free flour won't thicken or create creamy textures. Alternatively, for some recipes, tapioca starch can be used.

Gluten free: For homemade gluten free stuffings and casseroles, you need strong bread that will withstand wet ingredients. I recommend seeking thicker cuts of bread or using grain free baguette (such as Against the Grain). If you're baking, there are many good gluten free flours available (I prefer King Arthur). In some cases, a boxed mix may be best.

Roasted soy nuts, hemp seeds: When you want a dish to have crunch or a "nutty" texture, while still being nut-free then I recommend using soy nuts or hemp seeds. Not only will they add something special to your dish, but they also offer needed protein for vegetarian guests that will be passing on turkey.

Ground flax, egg replacer: Making dishes egg free (especially desserts) can be difficult (it may be worth practicing ahead of time). Two options to try are Bob's Mill Egg Replacer, which has instructions for how much to use in place of one egg, or ground flaxseed (one tablespoon plus three tablespoons water replaces one egg).

Soy milk: If you need to make a dairy free dish but want it to be satisfying then choose soy milk, as it's the only dairy alternative beverage that contains protein. To make pudding with a dairy alternative (like almond milk), try "cook and serve" rather than instant pudding mix.

Twice-Baked Squash Casserole with Pecan Crunch (1 Guiding Stars) Hannaford.com

A twist on sweet potato casserole, this side dish gets its flavor from naturally sweet butternut squash and carrots and its texture from a topping of seeds, nuts, and coconut chips (or a combination that suits your needs).

- Ingredients:
- 2 lbs. carrots
 - 2 (16-oz.) packages cubed butternut squash
 - 3 Tbsp. olive oil
 - 3/4 cup pecans, roughly chopped

Meanwhile, in a medium bowl, combine the pecans, coconut chips and sunflower seeds. Carefully transfer roasted vegetables to a blender or a large bowl if using an immersion blender. Add the coconut milk, maple syrup and pumpkin pie spice. Puree until smooth. Season with salt to taste.

Transfer butternut squash mixture to a 2.5-qt greased baking dish. Top evenly with pecan mixture. Bake 8-10 minutes, until top is browned.

Arrest Made in Fatal Crash

A Dutchess County man has been arrested in connection with a fatal motor cycle accident that occurred Nov. 11 at about 9:45 p.m. in Philipstown.

According to Putnam County Sheriff Kevin McConville, members of the Bureau of Criminal Investigations who were at the scene determined that a vehicle being driven by Marcos Martinez, 56, of Hopewell Junction, was headed northbound on Route 9 near Stone Ridge Road when it crossed over the double-yellow line and struck a southbound vehicle head-on.

The driver of the southbound vehicle, Joe Stubblefeild, 52, of Cortlandt Manor, was pronounced dead at the scene. A 7-year-old rear-seat passenger was transported by ambulance to Westchester Medical Center for treatment of non-life-threatening injuries.

Martinez was charged with second-degree vehicular manslaughter, a class D Felony; as well as driving while intoxicated, a misdemeanor; and failure to use designated lane, a traffic infraction. He was arraigned in Philipstown Town Court and remanded to the Putnam County Correctional Facility in lieu of $250,000 cash bail or $500,000 bond.

The roadway was closed until approximately 3 a.m. while an investigation was completed with the assistance of the New York State Police Crash Investigation Unit. Also at the scene were members of the Garrison Fire and Ambulance, Philipstown Ambulance and Medics 1 and 2.

The investigation is continuing with the assistance of the Putnam County District Attorney's Office.

A Brewster woman was recently arrested for allegedly driving the wrong way on Interstate-84.

According to Sheriff McConville, at about 1:45 a.m. Nov. 11, deputies were joined by members of the Kent Police Department and New York State Police in being dispatched to I-84 in Kent for a vehicle that was being driven eastbound while it was in the westbound lanes. A deputy was able to spot the vehicle and attempted to get the driver to stop, which she eventually did after striking a Village of Brewster Police Department unit near the Route 312 exit.

The driver, identified as Lynne Cabiati, 41, was allegedly unaware that she was traveling in the wrong direction. She failed multiple sobriety tests and was taken into custody and charged with DWI, unlawfully fleeing a police officer in a motor vehicle and reckless driving, all misdemeanors; as well as driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

Cabiati was processed at the sheriff's office and released to a relative, with a ticket to appear in court at a later date.

While responding to the call, a Kent police officer was injured when he was struck by an uninvolved vehicle. He, along with the occupants of the vehicle, were transported to Danbury Hospital for minor injuries.

It was later learned that the original 911 call for the wrong-way driver was made to Dutchess County, which indicates Cabiati traveled for quite a distance before being stopped.

According to Sheriff McConville, at about 8:15 a.m. Nov. 13, deputies were dispatched to a two-car accident on Route 9 in the area of Lyons Road in Philipstown. Howard Gordon, 81, of Pomona, who was headed northbound on Route 9, said he fell asleep while driving.

His vehicle then struck a guiderail and bounced into the southbound lane, where it struck the side of a dump truck operated by Carlos Miranda, 50, of Fishkill, that was headed southbound.

Gordon was transported by Cold Spring Ambulance to the North Highlands Fire Department station where he was flown via helicopter to Westchester Medical Center with apparent non-life-threatening injuries.

Miranda and a passenger in his vehicle were uninjured.

Youngsters Make Care Packages for Soldiers

Students assemble care packages for soldiers serving overseas.

United For the Troops is near and dear to Brewster High School social studies teacher Marissa Gargano's heart. Her son, Matthew, a 2015 BHS graduate, is a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps, 2nd Battalion, currently deployed to Okinawa, Japan – so it makes perfect sense that Gargano's Leadership Club at Wells Middle School is making up care packages for soldiers.

"Many soldiers are just out of high school and don't get care packages from home, so this makes a difference," she said.

The Leadership Club meets every Wednesday after school. It is composed of about 20 seventh- and eighth-graders. Throughout the year, they put on fundraisers, collect pet food for the Putnam Humane Society, and volunteer their time.

Recently, students put together the care packages for soldiers. Some poured dirt into small plastic envelopes with a note that read: "Sending you a little bit of American soil so you don't feel so far from home. Love, Henry H. Wells MS Leadership Club, Brewster, N.Y."

"We are sending the soil so the soldiers feel love and know that we are thinking of them," said Charlie Scott.

At one table, students were cutting stars from tattered flags and putting them into Ziploc baggies, as a special way to recycle retired flags.

"Soldiers who are deployed can carry these star patches in their wallets," said Jetlira Mufhkolaj.

Haley Jacknetti and Emily Hughes have been in the club throughout middle school and are considered the heart of the club.

"My favorite events are when we all get together as a group and work as a team," said Jacknetti. "We are connecting with each other and doing good."

In addition to the tattered flag stars and soil packages, the club is holding a wish list drive this month for things like snacks, toiletries and sundries to send to soldiers. Once everything is collected, the group will drop off the donations at the United For the Troops offices in Carmel for mailing just in time for the holidays.

Estate Planning Talk at the Thanksgiving Table

Is there anything more heartwarming than the tradition of a turkey being pardoned by the president before Thanksgiving? Of course not. The inalienable rights of poultry must be preserved at all cost.

But what about the yams. Who will speak up for them? Don't yams deserve a pardon too? Or a suspended sentence, at least?

These are some of my Thanksgiving thoughts while I wait for a giant roasted bird to be paraded through the kitchen and settled on the dining room table. Turkey Day is a time for reflection (and arranging food on your plate that strikes the perfect balance between proteins, starches and canned cranberry sauce). Memories of past feasts blend with the warmth of present-day camaraderie.

You may have noticed that some family members have a tendency to retreat into their phones when the conversation lags. Hiding the phone in the turkey, calling it and watching your loved one panic as the ringtone reverberates in the stuffing is not recommended. Talking about estate planning readiness is a much better option – and less sticky.

So, how do you start a conversation about estate planning? Do what comes easy... Talk about yourself. If you are organized and have completed your core estate planning documents (Trust, Power of Attorney, Health Care Proxy, Living Will and Last Will & Testament) then you are a force of change, stressing the importance of planning and nudging family members in the right direction.

If you are a disorganized procrastinator and disclose that fact in your estate planning commentary, you may find that others share your affliction. A few chuckles and shrugs later, everyone collectively decides to change their ways.

Sometimes the subject of estate planning comes up inadvertently. Maybe a loved one was recently discharged from a hospital or the lack of a Power of Attorney may have made it difficult for a spouse to get information concerning a retirement account. These life events provide an opening for wider discussion about the value of being prepared.

I like the phrase "mapping things out." There is a form of geographical positioning that takes place in estate planning in which the people you care about and the things you own are carefully arranged to obtain an optimal result.

There is a school of thought among certain estate planning practitioners and clients that all of this should remain private and not for public consumption. Obviously, larger Thanksgiving gatherings with distant cousins, friends and neighbors of the host may not be the optimal occasion to blurt out the names of all the people you're disinheriting. What we are talking about is a holiday meal where the individuals seated around you are lifelong intimates, family, loved ones of enduring duration.

The idea of a strong family that is meeting estate planning goals and building an infrastructure that will connect family members for decades in celebration and difficulty remains paramount in my mind.

Happy Thanksgiving from everyone at The Feller Group, P.C.

Good Tidings from Brewster Students

JFK students decorate their submission for the Festival of Trees at Ann's Place.

To mark World Kindness Day, second-graders in Brewster joined forces to do good at JFK Elementary School – and beyond.

Deb Gorey's class teamed up with Kristen Peterson and Kelsey Stockton's English language learning class to work together while learning English and Spanish from each other, and spreading kindness. They chose Ann's Place and its annual Festival of Trees as the benefactor of their efforts.

Every year, people donate trees, wreaths and centerpieces to the Festival of Trees in support of Ann's Place, which relies on the generosity of donors to be able to continue providing care services to families facing cancer, free of charge.

JFK students said they wanted to sprinkle kindness throughout the holiday season and help make people smile. Students were given an assortment of materials to create decorations for a tree to be submitted as part of the Festival of Trees. All the ornaments and garlands are handmade, in both English and Spanish.

Their tree is dedicated to teacher Megan Gersch.

Brewster student Elias Arias Tlaczani, center, was joined by family and Putnam/Northern Westchester BOCES Assistant Superintendent Dr. Lynn Allen and Principal Mike Sowul for his recognition as a Student of Distinction.

Brewster Youth a BOCES Student of Distinction

Brewster student Elias Arias Tlaczani, who attends the Putnam/Northern Westchester BOCES Career & Technical Education Center, was recognized as a Student of Distinction during the Nov. 7 Brewster School Board meeting.

Tlaczani is a student in the carpentry program, a class that demands precision, deftness and close attention to detail, as well as careful following of safety protocols. He excels in every area of the program, according to teacher Jon Farrell.

“Elias is a great student,” he said. “He arrives early to class and is always the first to take down all the stools and prepare the classroom for the day. He really wants to get right to work and shows tremendous interest in all of his projects.”

According to Farrell, carpentry involves precise measuring, cutting and uniformity.

“Elias is incredibly serious and responsible about his work,” he said. “He always stays on task doing projects, which is something that is particularly important in woodworking. I see big things in Elias’ future.”

“I used to love making arts and crafts, and carpentry is the same, just on a larger scale,” said Tlaczani. “I can fix things around the house and I can definitely see myself pursuing this as a career.”

Another Horse Rescue for Patterson F.D.

The Patterson Fire Department was dispatched Nov. 14 to assist the New Hackensack Fire Department of Dutchess County, and Rhinebeck Equine, with a horse rescue.

Several PFD firefighters trained in technical large animal emergency rescue were available and responded to the scene. Fortunately, the horse wasn’t mired in mud like some others have been, and the small horse was only half as heavy as others, according to the department.

Working with the veterinarian staff on-scene and using some simple techniques, rescuers quickly got the horse standing, steadied and back into the barn.

This is the sixth horse rescue for PFD in 2023

Art Workshops Continue at Pawling Gallery

LAND Gallery in Pawling continues its series of practical workshops aimed at both painters and photographers, hosted by Sharon Nakazato and Jane Haslam.

Designed to spark fresh approaches and expand creative possibilities while augmenting technical skills, these workshops will discover what photography and drawing/painting share and can bring to each other. Regardless of skill level – beginner to practiced – participants are sure to deepen their experience of art and the world.

The workshops will take place at LAND Gallery, 30 Charles Colman Blvd., or nearby in Pawling.

The fee for each workshop is $45. Sign up at www.janehaslam-photography.com/p/85944cnw/photography-painting-sketching-workshop.

“The Next Step” is scheduled Dec. 16 from 2 to 3:30 at the gallery. So often we forget that learning is an accumulation of experiences and from time to time we need the chance to recap, see what we have assimilated, and allow questions and aspirations to surface. Some creativity-exploring activities should make this another fun and inspiring workshop.

This is an opportunity for painters and photographers of all levels to learn about balancing the development of artistic and technical skills. Nakazato and Haslam both will discuss the fundamentals of their art forms, their techniques and their passions.

Nakazato lived in Japan and had many years of intensive training with a master in Asian brush calligraphy that infuses her works, as evident in her quality of line, spatial choices and inherent spirituality. She was co-founder and for 10 years director of Yasuragi Japan Arts Center and former head of the arts program at Longview School.

Nakazato is currently active with Art East, Putnam Arts Council and Peekskill Arts Alliance, and heads up FrOGS’ plein air events and the annual FrOGS juried art competition.

Haslam is a British photographer who currently resides in the Hudson Valley and has owned a photography business in New York State since 2009. Her imagery is emotive and transports viewers into her world at the moment she clicked that shutter.

Putnam and northern Westchester residents hold up signs denouncing Rep. Mike Lawler's "extremist" voting record. Photo by Teri Lukin.

Putnam Progressives Call Out Lawler's 'Extremism'

About 60 residents of Congressional District 17 joined together Nov. 15 to call attention to the discrepancies between Rep. Mike Lawler's "moderate rhetoric" and his "very conservative" voting record, according to a press release from Dwight Arthur of Mahopac, acting press coordinator for Putnam Progressives, Take 17 and CCoHOPE Indivisible – the three organizations that sponsored the event.

People from across Putnam County and northern Westchester gathered at the Jan Peek Gazebo in Peekskill to call out issues in which they feel Lawler has made public statements presenting himself as "reasonable and balanced," but took a more "extremist" position when voting.

Putnam Progressives is a group of people in Putnam County concerned with taking action to promote and preserve policies that support democratic values, human rights and tolerance.

CCoHOPE Indivisible is an organization that works to protect democracy and push government at all levels to function for the collective good of society, drawing members from Cortlandt, Croton-on-Hudson, Ossining and Peekskill.

Take 17 advocates for progressive political causes in the 17th Congressional District.

Amazon, Acme, Tops Friendly Markets, Mobile, Shell and BP are suggested.

Gift card donations should be mailed or dropped off no later than Monday, Dec. 4, to: PNW-WRC, 935 S. Lake Blvd., Suite 2, Mahopac, N.Y. 10541. Office hours are 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

'A Christmas Carol' at Tompkins Corners

Master storyteller Jonathan Kruk once again brings his dramatic solo rendition of "A Christmas Carol" to Tompkins Corners Cultural Center, 729 Peekskill Hollow Road, Putnam Valley, on Friday, Dec. 1 at 7:30 p.m.

Using a treasure trove of voices and gestures, Kruk creates more than 30 characters to recreate Charles Dickens' classic. The result is a singular show that is intimate and imaginative.

Performing in Dickensian garb, the storyteller creates gripping vignettes with dynamic dialogue. Kruk employs his legendary eloquence and wit, quickly transforming into the characters of Scrooge, Cratchit, Marley, Tiny Tim and all the spirits.

Kruk's theatrical storytelling has been featured on "CBS Sunday Morning," "The Today Show," The Travel Channel and at countless schools, libraries, festivals and historic sites. He has been named Best Storyteller in the Hudson Valley, and The New York Times describes him as having "a way with the spoken word, the telling gesture, the sprinkling of humor, and the appropriate costume for a smorgasbord of stories."

This program runs just less than one hour with live musical accompaniment.

Tickets are $20 and may be purchased at Eventbrite.com. Students are admitted free.

Tompkins Corners Cultural Center is a 501(c)3 not-for-profit organization. For more information, visit TompkinsCorners.org or Facebook, or email info@tompkinscorners.org.

Putnam Chorale to Perform 'Holiday Fanfares'

Members of the Putnam Chorale hail from Putnam, Dutchess and Westchester counties, as well as nearby Connecticut. The group is entering its 40th anniversary year.

Dr. Jason Tramm joined the Putnam Chorale as conductor this year.

The Putnam Chorale will perform "Holiday Fanfares: Music of John Rutter, Daniel Pinkham and Gwyneth Walker" during two scheduled concerts, in Brewster and Beacon. The program will feature "Gloria" by Rutter, a rousing composition written for choir, brass, percussion and organ.

Described as "exalted, devotional and jubilant," the piece will be conducted by Dr. Jason Tramm, the dynamic new conductor of the chorale.

Other pieces in the program include Pinkham's "Christmas Cantata" and Walker's "A Star in the East." The chorale will be accompanied by the MidAtlantic Brass Ensemble, and organ.

Performances will be held Friday, Dec. 1 at 7:30 p.m. at the Church of St. Joachim, 51 Leonard St., Beacon; and Sunday, Dec. 3 at 3 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church, 83 Main St., Brewster. Tickets are $25 for adults, $20 for seniors and free for children 12 and younger.

The Putnam Chorale, entering its 40th anniversary season, is composed of 50-plus singers who hail from Putnam, Dutchess, Rockland and Westchester counties.

Tramm is an orchestral conductor, music director, podcast host and an artistic consultant. Hailed as a "conductor to watch" by Symphony Magazine and as "filled with Italianate passion" by the Huffington Post, his work in the choral, symphonic and operatic realms have received critical acclaim throughout the U.S. and abroad.

Tramm is artistic director/principal conductor for MidAtlantic Artistic Productions (with whom he made his Carnegie Hall debut in 2015), executive director of Light Opera of New Jersey, and principal guest conductor for the Long Island Concert Orchestra. He serves as an associate professor and director of choral activities at Seton Hall University, where he leads and conducts the university chorus, chamber choir and orchestra.

"Right here in our own backyard, there is an abundance of talent waiting to be celebrated and deserving of enthusiastic support," said Putnam Arts Council Chairman Carlos Passi. "As the Putnam Chorale marks its 40th year, it embodies the essence of a thriving community arts group and fosters a sense of community pride. Save the dates and join in celebrating the richness of talent in our community, and experience classical compositions, including the intriguing works of composers like John Rutter. This will take you beyond the usual holiday entertainment, offering a unique cultural experience."

The Putnam Chorale is a community chorus and since 1973 has been performing a wide range of music, from baroque and classical to contemporary. The non-profit group encourages new singers to apply for membership by emailing contactus@putnam-chorale.org.

Regional Youth Soccer League Rebrands

By Randy Vogt
Director of Public Relations,
ENYSSA

The West-Put Youth Soccer League was founded in 1974, originally serving just Westchester and Putnam counties but quickly expanding its geographic footprint. It has been known as the East Hudson Youth Soccer League for most of the 49 years of its existence.

As the league prepares to celebrate its 50th anniversary in 2024, it has rebranded into the Hudson Valley Youth Soccer League, as that name better reflects the nearly 15,000 registered youth players both east and west of the Hudson River. The league brings together clubs from Dutchess, Orange, Ulster, Putnam, Rockland, Sullivan and Westchester counties, plus Pike County in Pennsylvania.

The HVYSL logo is representative of the Hudson River that formed the Hudson Valley, as well as the Catskills and the Gunks that rise high above. The symbolism of the bridge is to “connect” the clubs from the entire Hudson Valley region, and the logo does not depict one particular bridge that spans the Hudson.

Media Solstice, based in Port Jervis, designed the logo with input from HVYSL members.

In addition to changing its name and logo, HVYSL also recognized that it was necessary to expand its Academy Program offering for its clubs. The academy is a supplemental training program from November through July and culminates with summer tournaments.

Three years ago, the league began its premier program, as there are many boys and girls who play on club travel teams and would like to challenge themselves at the premier league level. Premier teams train once a week and play games on Saturdays. The understanding for all of these players is that they also should play with their local club teams on Sundays, as they cannot only do HVYSL premier.

Also new from HVYSL is the T3 Program, a skill-based program that focuses on 3Ts – technical, tactical and thought.

HVYSL has indoor and outdoor training options for all travel team and recreation players from HVYSL clubs. The home training complex is the Hudson Valley Sports Dome in Milton.

For more information about the Hudson Valley Youth Soccer League, which is part of the Eastern New York Youth Soccer Association, contact the league office at 845-765-2864.

With more than 100,000 youth soccer players, both boys and girls, and more than 25,000 volunteers, the non-profit ENYSSA stretches from Montauk Point, Long Island, to the Canadian border. Members are affiliated with 10 leagues throughout the association, which covers the entire State of New York east of Route 81.

ENYSSA exists to promote and enhance the game of soccer for children and teenagers between the ages of 5 and 19 years old, and to encourage the healthy development of youth players, coaches, referees and administrators. All levels of soccer are offered, from intramural, travel team and premier players, as well as children with special needs. For more information, visit www.enysoccer.com.

Lawmakers and advocates participate in a recent food insecurity roundtable discussion.

Lawmakers Address Food Insecurity

Assemblyman Matt Slater, R-Yorktown, was joined by Putnam County Executive Kevin Byrne in hosting a roundtable discussion Nov. 3 on ways to combat food insecurity in the 94th Assembly District – and the state as a whole.

As former town supervisor, Slater established the Food Security Task Force in Yorktown to facilitate resources and data-sharing among food pantries to improve support in vulnerable neighborhoods.

CHHOP, Feeding Westchester, New York Presbyterian Hospital, Putnam Valley Food Pantry and Putnam Community Action Partnership were a few of the 13 organizations that joined in the recent discussion. They all provided insight on the organizations' experiences, including coordinating distribution, complying with state regulations, grant writing, filing various applications and handling enormous amounts of paperwork required from most nonprofit organizations seeking funds.

Slater suggested addressing these issues by simplifying specific financial processes. Additionally, he recommended establishing a food czar to supervise the coordination of various elements and ensuring that initiatives are not duplicated.

"Alongside our dedicated and hardworking local officials, I am committed to addressing and finding solutions for the ongoing food insecurity issue in New York to ensure every family and child has consistent access to food," said Slater. "Thank you to everyone who took part in this critical roundtable discussion."

Cindy Smith, warden/director of operations for St. Mary's Food Pantry, said the event was informative and helpful.

"It was wonderful to have the opportunity to speak with so many people who are doing the same work and see what challenges they are facing and how they are overcoming those challenges," she said. "It was also a great opportunity for all of us to have the ear of someone in Albany to explain our challenges and the help we need from the government."

Putnam Community Action Partnership Director Marisa O'Leary said that even though Putnam County has one of the lowest poverty rates in NYS, almost one third of its residents are still struggling to meet their basic needs.

"Funding is needed to support our emergency food providers who work tirelessly every day to address food insecurity," she said. "We are grateful for the platform to discuss the needs of our community and to advocate for funding and strategies to address those needs."

Travelers Advised of Route 35/202 Paving Project

A $4.1 million resurfacing and paving project on Route 35/202 in the Town of Yorktown in Westchester County is now underway, possibly affecting traffic for those headed south during rush-hour and other times.

The project, which stretches about 3 miles from the Taconic State Parkway to the Route 188 intersection in the commercial center of Yorktown Heights, is part of a major $100 million road repair effort at 64 different locations totaling almost 520 lane miles statewide to renew well-trafficked roadways impacted by extreme weather.

"The commencement of the Route 35/202 repaving project is truly great news because the current disrepair of this section of roadway is unacceptable," said State Sen. Pete Harckham, D-Peekskill. "Making these necessary improvements on this important area thoroughfare will benefit local residents and small businesses, as well as those traveling through the region."

"Ensuring the Route 202 corridor in Yorktown is kept at a high quality is critical for the Town of Yorktown," added Assemblyman Matt Slater, R-Yorktown. "I appreciate the collective work with our partners in government to make this important investment happen."

In addition to this project, Harckham and Slater have been able to push for other improvements for area roads, including $3 million for the repaving of Route 52 in Town of Kent and $14 million for the repaving of Route 22 in the towns of Patterson and Southeast.

The enacted 2023-24 state budget also includes an increase of $60 million for the Consolidated Local Street and Highway Improvement Program.

Earlier this year, Harckham and Slater sent a joint letter to the New York State Department of Transportation voicing concern about area roadways, and both legislative offices have fielded an inordinate number of complaints regarding problems with road surfaces.

The Route 35/202 repaving project is expected to be completed by May.

forever. No longer will a judge be allowed to assess a crime's impact on the victims or weigh the facts of a defendant's rehabilitative efforts and render a considered judgment."

He said the law makes no exceptions for hate crimes where the underlying offense is less than a Class A felony, domestic violence offenses, assaults on police and firefighters, home invasions and homicides other than murder.

"Imagine a domestic violence victim seeing her abuser's criminal conviction sealed after only three years," said Rolison. "That is going to be the reality for hundreds if not thousands of New York's women because of this bill.

The Clean Slate Act takes effect one year from its signage. It provides the NYS Office of Court Administration up to three years from that date to implement the processes necessary to identify and seal all eligible records.

Records will not be sealed to law enforcement or the criminal justice system. Records will not be sealed for individuals convicted of sex offenses, murder, domestic terror and other non-drug Class A felonies, and will also not be sealed until parole or probation is complete and there are no criminal charges in New York State, according to Hochul's office. The clock restarts altogether if parole or probation is revoked or if there is a new conviction.

Employers permitted by law to perform fingerprint-based criminal history checks on job applicants will continue to receive those records and use them to determine whether individuals should be hired. Conviction information will remain available for law enforcement purposes, the hiring of police and peace officers, the hiring of teachers at public and private schools, and background checks for firearm purchases and/or licenses.

"The Clean Slate Act will help reduce recidivism by ensuring that people who have served their sentences can access educational opportunities, jobs and housing, which are all essential ingredients to success," said NYS Division of Criminal Justice Services Commissioner Rossana Rosado. "Helping individuals successfully transition back to their communities improves lives and public safety, and the Clean Slate Act makes our criminal justice system fairer for all."

Birmingham Seeks Return to County Legislature

to the county's taxpayers," he said. "With all of the mandates that are being imposed on local governments from Albany, it's critical we continue to innovate new ways to lighten the real property tax burden on Putnam's taxpayers. Sound, environmentally-friendly economic development is a must. Increasing the tax base with new environmentally-sound commercial rate-payers will go a long way in easing the tax burden on the rest of us."

Birmingham supported the successful passage of many taxpayer-friendly pieces of legislation during his previous service on the County Legislature. He also authored the recodification of the county's ethics law and was key in the establishment of both a tax stabilization reserve fund and a debt service reduction reserve fund.

In 2009, Birmingham led the charge to place a referendum on the ballot to reform the County Charter to permit the Legislature to independently reduce county spending during the middle of a fiscal year. Following a successful veto override by the Legislature spearheaded by Birmingham, the voters of the county resoundingly approved the measure by a vote of 9,552 to 7,774.

This reform legislation is now codified as Section 7.07 of the County Charter.

"This piece of legislation is perhaps the one I'm most proud of," he said. "Prior to the passage of this ballot question, the voters' elected representatives on the County Legislature had no independent power to cut spending mid-year in the face of decreasing revenues. We were powerless to react independently to a worsening economy and now this law has empowered the County Legislature to put the brakes on runaway spending during times of fiscal stress. The voters overwhelmingly agreed with this reform measure and since that time, both branches of county government have a fair say in keeping a lid on spending."

Birmingham also served as first chairman of the Putnam County Industrial Development Agency, from 1995-98.

"Since its creation, the IDA has attracted new commercial enterprises to the county, which have not only created new jobs in the county but, more importantly, taken some of the tax burden off of the homeowners of the county," he said. "The IDA has assisted in the expansion of Putnam County's tax base, which translates into these commercial businesses paying a larger portion of real property taxes that otherwise would have to be borne by Putnam's homeowners."

The Seventh Legislative District encompasses parts of Brewster, Mahopac and Southeast.

Birmingham grew up in Mahopac and has lived in Brewster and Southeast since 2001.

"I believe it's important this district be represented by someone who understands both parts of the district," he said. "Having grown up in Mahopac and having attended Mahopac schools and later serving as a village trustee in the Village of Brewster (2001-03), I believe I understand the 'pulse' of both portions of the district. Also, having represented the district on the County Legislature for nine years and having served as deputy county executive, I know all of the neighborhoods of the district and will be able to hit the ground running on day one."

Birmingham received a bachelor's degree in history from The Catholic University of America in 1990 and his law degree from The Columbus School of Law at the same university in 1995. He is a partner in a public finance law firm where his practice centers on municipal and public finance. Birmingham is also an adjunct professor at Pace University, where he teaches a course on public finance law.

'Inspiring' Quality Family Time

plained the mandala project, and then parents and teens set to work making colorful lines and shapes on old records.

"What a great event to spark conversation and bring us together to find creative ways to relieve stress and discuss difficult topics," said parent Sarah Schick. "I loved spending time with my child and my neighbors."

The following night, several more pairs of parents and teens joined artist Terry Fokine at Putnam Arts Council in Mahopac to paint a water scene. Step-by-step, the attendees layered paint and transformed canvases into works of art. Together, they learned new painting skills, relaxed, expressed creativity and had fun.

"The beauty of the masterpiece is your own unique touch," said parent Carrie Riorden, who painted with her son Aiden.

Inspired closed out at Arts on The Lake in Kent Lakes, where Sarah Miller Totten brought the serenity of a mountain vista to participants. Parents and teens alike offered suggestions, asked questions and supported each other's creativity.

"I like painting and it was fun to share the experience with my family," said Jayden Schlurensauer, who participated with his mother and grandmother.

With another Red Ribbon Week coming to an end, Kulka said she is thrilled Inspired is now in its third year.

"We are beyond grateful to the community organizations and artists who partner with us to offer this free prevention activity to the families of Putnam," she said. "The Prevention Educators look forward to bringing InspiRED to the community again next year."
